ACTON CAMP MEETING.

Cornell University Professor Lectures -Oil Stove Explosion.

Owing to the usual Monday morning exodus at Acton, the lecture of Dr. C. W. Hodell, of Cornell University, upon "Milton, the Politician," was not so largely attended. The address was scholarly throughout, and gave evidence of all the careful, thorough preparation which coilege training and native ability could warrant. Milton's idea of true personal freedom was shown, and a distinction drawn between that and the false ideas of freedom which have been drawn from the Declaration of Independence, wherein every man is ready to cry "liberty" for himself, while he restrains his neighbor from freedom. The speaker closed with an earnest appeal that true and not false liberty should prevail. and that the true freemen bring our country to a glorious future.

Rev. Macklin, of Irvington, preached the afternoon sermon, taking for his subject Christ's sermon on the mount. He likened the beatltudes to a string of jewels, and his particular text was, "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

What might have proved a very serious accident was prevented by the presence of mind of the few spectators to-day. A coaloil stove mysteriously exploded and the paper upon a cottage wall caught fire. The paper was torn off and benches and stove thrown out just in time to save the cottage. To-morrow is "Labor day," and the programme is full. Miss Dudersoris will give her regular lesson for the children at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. H. Doddridge, D. D., will give a lecture upon the subject, "Cause of Pauperism and Crime and the Remedy," at 10:30 a. m. The afternoon exercise will be an address by Capt. E. F. Ritter on the subject: "Moral Law and Civil Law Parts of the Same Thing." The 8 p. m. lecture will be by Dr. George L. Curtiss; the subject, "The American Tramp.

Miss Marie Allison, daughter of Prof. Allison, director of the music, arrived yesterday, and will play the plane throughout the session. Rev. Mr. Edwards, of Shelbyville, visited the meetings yesterday. Mr. Northrup, of Seventh-street Church, Indianapolis, came at noon to-day. Mrs. R. Fike, of Indianapolis, is spending the day with friends.

DEBS WILL NOT ATTEND.

The Meeting of Agitators Will Be Held Without Him.

Eugene V. Debs will not speak here this evening, as announced. The local American Railway Union officials received a telegram from him yesterday afternoon stating that it would be impossible for him to be nere. The parade will be given, however, a start being made from the Statchouse. The route of march will be along Washington street to Noble, and from thence north to Reichwein's Hall, where speeches will be myle by local agitators.

A petition was filed with the board asking for the improvement of the east bank of Fall creek, from Twenty-first to Twentysecond street, and the reopening of the old roadway along the creek bank vacated by the County Commissioners, the roadway being a continuance of what is now Sutherland avenue. No action was taken upon

FOURTEENTH-STREET SEWER. The Big Work Will Be Completed

Within a Few Days.

Fulmer & Seibert, the contractors for the Fourteenth-street sewer, say the work will completed within a few days. They have been at work upon it for sixteen months with the exception of about two months during July and August of last year, when they were working but a small force upon it. This was due to the money stringency. The banks at that time would not loan money for any purpose. The sewer has been built in three sections and the contractors are now at work connecting the three sections. One of these is at the Monon crossing and the other at Martindale avenue. The sewer is 11,163 feet or a fraction over two miles in length and ranges from twelve and a half to five feet in diameter. Sanitary Officers Must Pay.

The street-car company has issued an order that sanitary officers must pay their fares upon the cars. No notice of the order was sent to the Board of Health, and the fact that it had been issued by the when one of the officers boarded a car and the conductor refused to honor his badge and gave as a reason the order of the company. The old Board of Health had a contract with the company to carry the sanitary officers at a stated price per an-This contract has expired and has not been renewed by the new board. The sanitary officers say unless some provision is made for their transportation by the city they will walk, but this will consume a great deal of time and it would take a dozen men to do the work now done.

TORE OUT HIS EYEBALL.

Harry Jones Frightfully Injures John Cooper, Another Negro Lad.

John Cooper, a colored lad, aged about nine years, was struck in the eye with a brick yesterday evening and frightfully injured. He was the victim of the vicious wrath of Harry Jones, a youth of about his own age, who lives on Camp street. The Cooper boy lives at No. 9 Sheridan street. He left his home yesterday afternoon to go to the circus, and on the way back fell in with Jones. While passing along Blake street near the canal one or the other provoked a quarrel. In the scuffle that followed the Jones boy picked up a half brick and struck his antagonist in the eye. The injured lad fell to the sidewalk and his assailant fled. A resident of the vicinity who saw the brutal act picked the unconscious youth up and carried him to Lambert's drug store, on West Michigan street. From there he was taken to the City Hospital, and his injuries examined. The injured eye was frightfully mangled from the effects of the blow, and the physicians found that it would be nec-essary to remove the ball. The boy was put under the influence of chloroform and the operation successfully performed. The sufferer was unable to tell how the trouble originated or where the Jones boy lived.

REV. MR. STECK'S DEPARTURE.

He Leaves To-Day for His New Field at Gettysburg, Pa. Rev. Augustus R. Steck, pastor of the First English Lutheran Church of this city, preached his farewell sermon Sunday, and will leave the city to-day. He goes from here to Gettysburg. Pa., to accept the pastorate of the St. James English Lutheran Church at that place. Mr. Steck has been with the church in this city for three years, and has materially advanced its interests during his stay. The charge to which he goes was held by his father for several years prior to his death, and was sought by Mr. Steck before he accepted the charge here. At that time there was not a vacancy n the Gettysburg pulpit, and Mr. Steck accepted the pastorate of the church here. A vacancy having occurred a short time ago in the pulpit of the St. James Church, Mr. Steck was invited to fill it and accepted the offer. The salary he received here was $1,400. That paid by the Gettys-burg church is an increase, but the exact amount is not known. Mr. Steck came to this city from Stewartsville, N. J., and since he has been here has received fifty-seven persons into membership of the church. During the time there have been but eleven losses from all causes, John H. Ohr, one of the trustees of the church, says no effort has yet been made to find a successor for Mr. Steck, and no one will be invited to fill the pulpit during the month of August. In the meantime the trustees will search for a suitable person to whom the vacancy will be offered in

A COLORED BOY DROWNS.

James Buchanan Loses His Life in the Canal Near Second Street.

James Buchanan, a colored boy fourteen years old, living on Howard street, was drowned while swimming in the canal, near Second street, about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The canal is not very deep at that locality, but the lad was small in stature, and no one, apparently, saw him struggling in the water. J. A. Bristow recovered the boy's body, and it was taken to the home of Buchanan's parents. Coroner Beck viewed the remains and returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

DUEL WITH A THIEF

PATROLMAN THEODORE GRUBBS WOUNDS JOHN HULIN, A FUGITIVE.

Mysterious Manner in Which Hulin Obtained a Revolver Which He Fired at Grubbs.

For a few minutes yesterday that portion of Pearl street in the rear of the jail was converted into a dueling ground. Patrolman Theodore Grubbs, one of the new men in the police department, was shot at three times by John Hulin, the thief and suspected murderer of Lewis Parsons. The patrolman returned the fire with good effect, and after a number of shots brought Hulin to the earth. The shooting happened a few minutes after 1 o'clock, while patrolman Grubbs was on his way to the jail with Hulin and another prisoner, Hulin had been bound over to the grand jury on the charge of grand larceny. As the patrolman and his prisoners neared the corner of Alabama and Pearl streets Hulin broke away and started to run. He ran ten or fifteen feet, and then, wheeling sharply about, fired three shots at Grubbs, each shot following the other in quick succession. Police Captain Campbell, looking from the window of police headquarters, saw the patrolman stoop low as the last shot was fired. He believed that Grubbs had been wounded, but an instant later saw him draw his pistol and set out after the fleeing thief. Hulin ran directly west on Pearl street to Delawere and then turned south. The patrolman followed close, and as he ran fired several shots. Hulin kept in the middle of Delaware street until he reached the cracker bakery of Fred Hetz. Here he dodged into the aliey as a bullet from Grubbs's pistol caught him in the left leg. He staggered, but managed to run a few feet further. He saw an opening to the cellar underneath the bakery and darted for the place. but as he disappeared another builet clipped the hair from the top of his head and made a bad flesh wound. Captain Campbell and Sheriff Emmett accompanied the patrolman to the cellar, where Hulin was glad enough to surrender. His pistol was found in the alley, where he had thrown it. He was carried over to the jail and Dr. Hodges dressed his wounds. Hulin was arrested Sunday morning for the theft of a hack from the stable of Horace Woods. A month ago he was released from jail, where he had been confined for several weeks pending the grand jury investigation of his supposed connection with the Parsons murder. The police cannot account for the presence of a weapon in his pocket yesterday unless it was handed to him as he left the Police Court. Superintendent Powell thinks that perhaps the pistol was passed in to him from the rear of the police station on Sunday night. The possibility of this having been done was discussed by the superintendent and the Board of Safety yesterday afternoon, and it was decided to have strong wire netting placed over the grated windows at the rear of the cells.

CLOSING UP SALOONS

TWO PROMINENT DOWN TOWN PLACES WILL BE OPEN NO MORE.

Another About to Shut Up-Police Surveillance Prevents Profits on Sales During Illegal Hours.

The police surveillance of the down-town saloons has made the business not only unprofitable to some of them, but will cause a thinning out, perhaps. The enforcement of the law has already resulted in the closing of two of them, and another will probably close its doors within a few days. George Shires, proprietor of the saloon on West Washington street adjoining the Park Theater, closed his doors Saturday night and did not open them yesterday. This stand has been a very profitable one, and under the Sullivan administration literally coined money for its owner. Recently, however, with the strict police survelllance after 11 o'clock and on Sunday, making the after-hours business exceedingly precarious, it has been a losing investment. The expenses of the place have been heavy and the receipts light. The consequence was that, being unprofitable, the saloon has been closed. The exact liabilities of Shires are unknown, but he is said to be involved, and it is reported that his indebtedness will

The doors of Stephen Matler's place, on Washington, near Pennsylvania street, will not be opened to-day. Mr. Matler said last night that he had lost $15,000 within the last two years, and had decided to close his place. He had held on, believing that business would improve with time, but instead of improving it became worse. He has se-cured most of his creditors, and said his unsecured indebtedness would not exceed $600. He returned some of his stock to the persons from whom he purchased it. Michael Burns, the cigar dealer, took back a lot of cigars sold Matler. Matler will go into the same business at Millersville. Another saloon which will be closed within a few days if a sale of it is not made is the "Imperial." This is June's old place on the "levee," and has been looked upon as a profitable stand. In the halcyon days under the Sullivan administration it was a paying investment. Latterly, however, the close surveillance having cut off its most profitable business, it has been run at a loss. The place is owned by Michael Federspill, who purchased it about six months ago from the brewery sydicate. Federspill at the time was running a saloon on the southeast corner of Illinois and Georgia streets. He had made and saved some money at this place. He sold it for $3,500. He said last night that at the time he sold out on South Illinois street and bought the place on the levee he had $1,400 in cash. He paid $5,000 for the place six months ago, and has lost all this and the money he had on hand at the time of the purchase. He says for three months past he has lost $15 a day in the business. He has a mortgage for $1,000 resting upon the stock and fixtures, but aside from this his indebtedness is slight. Federspill said last night: "The day trade in a place of this kind is, of course, very light, and under the police surveillance we cannot secure the night trade that would otherwise come. I have been trying to sell the place for some time past. It is not the kind of a place that I care to run. I have a family, and cannot conduct this place as it is expected that it would be conducted."

Board of Review's Work Completed. The aggregate of the assessments of the County Board of Review this year is $9,-873,695. This is an increase of $375,565 over last year's assessments. The increase is due to the increase in the assessment of some of the larger corporation, while many of the smaller ones were reduced. Entire wheat flour at Van Pelt's.

THE BIG CIRCUS DAY

EIGHTEEN THOUSAND PEOPLE WERE CROWDED UNDER THE TENTS.

Barnum & Bailey's Shows Witnessed by the Largest Crowds for Many Years-The Features.

It was a great day for the circus and a great circus for the day. The standard of the Barnum & Bailey show is always maintained, and the public, therefore, is never disappointed in the exhibition. As in former years, its only fault is that there is altogether too much of it for any one pair of eyes to take in at one time. The several rings and platforms are kept going for nearly two hours without intermission, and by that time the spectators have absorbed circus enough to last them some time. It is of a quality, too, that spoils them for an inferior exhibition. When they see the Barnum & Bailey show they get the very cream of everything in the circus line.

Several thousand people came in from the surrounding towns during the morning and added their forces to thousands of Indianapolis residents, who were taking an equally lively interest in the big show. The parade in the morning was witnessed by enormous crowds along the line of march. and when 2 o'clock came the immense tent was literally packed with perspiring but happy humanity. The opening offering was a procession of the nations, in which the world's representatives passed in review. This pageant was followed by one of the most wonderful acts of the circus, namely, the exhibition of trained wild beasts in a steel-barred arena. It was similar in many respects to that given by Hagenbeck at the world's fair, lions, panthers, leopards, bears and dogs being put through their paces with as little apparent difficulty as is experienced with some of the more intelligent docile animals. Two immense African lions were made to passively see-saw on a board in a fashion superlatively absurd for the king of beasts. A big black panther leaped over the backs of the great Danish hounds and ran under their bodies, for another succession of leaps, and various other acts were accomplished without the manifestation of the slightest ill-feeling on the part of the animals. They knew their places and their turns, and were as prompt and as well up in their acts as the circus people themselves. Three trainers were in the big cage, and were closely watched at all times by their fierce-looking companions as they wielded their whips. The whips did not have to be used to drive the animals but, probably, served a most important purpose in keeping them on their good

The greatest elephant trainer of this age. William Newman, exhibited a herd of the ponderous beasts in one ring, while his assistant, George Bates, put another lot of them through similar performances in an-other ring. They did all and more than elephants ever did before, revealing a wonderful susceptibility to training. The Ethnological Congress was then shown by parade of the strange nations comprising that interesting portion of the big show. The queer procession was headed by an Algerian woman, who whirled the entire distance around the rings without the slightest apparent effort or any evi-dence of giddiness. The music was a strong reminder of the Midway, and had a world's fair sound about it that took everybody back just a year and put them on the Plaisance again for a few moments. A modified form of the danse de ventre was presented in this procession by an Arabian girl. The Esquimau baby, hauled in a sled, and the Burmese boy, carried in a litter borne by two camels, were inter-esting features of the turnout of this Ethnological Congress. The leaping, tumbling, trapeze work and aerial acts in general were all of a character to entertain and astonish. The bareback jockey riding of Rose Meers was one of the equestrian features of the perform-ance. Miss Meers has been with the Bar-num & Bailey show for several seasons, and is a skillful and daring rider. The trained horses aroused much admiration and the ponies captured the children. The baby elephant caused the usual amount of merriment and a couple of trained pigs created much hilarity. A clown's exit from the ring on the back of a big, fat hog was something so unusual even for a circus that it attracted the attention of every one in the vast crowd near enough to see Juggling, contortion and ac-ic acts, athletic feats, bal-g, horizontal bar specialties, robatic Japanese bamboo oddities and other wonderful features made up a programme the equal of which has never been seen here. Linda Jeal's hurdle equestrian act and the riding of Messrs. Seabert and Herbert and Misses Robson and Allington were greatly enjoyed by those who believe a circus cannot have too much in this line. William Showles and William Demott gave a bareback exhibition of fast riding that ranked well up with the best on record.

The races, which have for numerous seasons past been made the closing feature of the Barnum & Bailey show, were as interesting yesterday as of yore. A new act has been introduced in this portion of the programme, namely, an exhibition of daring riding by cossacks, who are well known the world over as thorough masters of the saddle. The cossacks with Barnum & Bailey do a lot of seemingly reckless riding with a grace that is wonderful considering the apparent risk. They pick up handkerchiefs from the ground while riding at a break-neck pace, stand on their heads under similar circumstances, ride backwards, standing up and in almost every conceivable posture. The several clowns that make the fun for this big show are well versed in their business. They do not tire anybody with ong-drawn-out stories or acts, but simply work in as part of a very busy, bright and entertaining exhibition, which is never allowed to lag for a single instant. The vast spread of canvas designated as the "main tent" holds 9,000 when filled, and yesterday afternoon it was more than that-it was running over with people. Fully ten thousand witnessed the show. the crowd being probably the greatest in the circus annals of Indianapolis. Last night there were eight thousand there, making the day a red-letter one for the "greatest on earth" so far as Indiana's capital is concerned. The day was a typical circus one, hot and clear. The big show is at Anderson to-day, Marion to-morrow, and then it travels into Ohio, striking Van Wert, a new town for it. From there it goes to Toledo, Detroit, thence north as far as Sault Ste. Marie. Then it doubles back to LaPorte, Ind. then to Milwaukee and around to Omaha,

Police Court Cases.

The case against the former was continued till Aug. 1 and that against the latter till Aug. 2. James Parker was arraigned for assault and battery with intent to kill, and his case continued till Aug. 1.
